Spanning I-95, Circuit Bridges Connects Electroacoustic Music from NYC to Raleigh

September 25, 2014 (NEW YORK, NEW YORK) Circuit Bridges is launching its second season by collaborating with Arts NOW at North Carolina State University to present a program featuring electroacoustic music from New York and North Carolina.

Rodney Waschka (North Carolina State University) and Travis Garrison (East Carolina University) are curating new fixed media works that will be presented alongside selections from Circuit Bridges' recent call for works.

The Arts NOW Series at North Carolina State University presents concerts, lectures, and other performing arts events for the University community and the general public. The Arts NOW Series programs feature contemporary work in the arts: new works, new techniques, new interpretations and contexts, and new connections to older work. Previous presentations have included everything from opera premieres to events based on video works to piano lecture-recitals on mathematics and music to a special event related to global climate change.

Circuit Bridges is dedicated to highlighting the community of electroacoustic music creators. Founded in 2014 by Robert Voisey and under the artistic direction of David Morneau and Melissa Grey, Circuit Bridges strives to explore all music under the electroacoustic umbrella. This includes but not limited to sonic art, radio art, glitch, circuit bending, electronica, real-time improvisation, network performance, audiovisual composition, mash-up, and data sonification. Its mission is to connect with artists from around the globe to present the wealth of electroacoustic music being written today.

This concert will feature a performance by Miolina, the New York violin duo of Mioi Takeda and Lynn Bechtold. Miolina recently performed for the opening of The Morbid Anatomy Museum.

Other living composers on this concert include Keith Allegretti, Stephen Anderson, Lynn Bechtold, Thomas Rex Beverly, Daniel Blinkhorn, Lin Culbertson, Josué Collado Fregoso, Travis Garrison, Melissa Grey, Elaine Lillios, Scott Lindroth, Bill Seaman, John Supko, Rodney Waschka, and Lee Weissert.
